MUSIC: Anna Ternheim - No Subtle Men

Hey, Platypylural! What do you think of taking a week of your leave in October? We could dirtbag out to Devil's Tower like you mentioned? T's people want her and me up for the second week of October, and then if I do a week with you before and a week with just T after...

That works out really well.

And nobody's claimed October on the Sheet yet. (Duke, don't you dare.)

...And there goes the weekend

But hey, we got a day and a half of this one! And I got to sleep in for two whole mornings. Too bad

...Is it October yet?

...How about now?

(That means "Yes" in the language of my people. Whoever they are.)

(Unless Dad suddenly announces that we have to vacation one at a time. Which he hasn't yet. Maybe nobody will suggest it until it's too late to implement.)

Oh, man, I just realized I have no idea what the weather is like in Wyoming in October. Is it going to be too cold to climb already? Will we need arctic sleeping bags and alpine gear?

Is it possible I could be a bigger worry wart?

First week of October is usually awesome. Dry and sunny, hot during the day. Temps drop at night, so bring your Thinsulate-lined Polarfleece jammies.

We can warm up for Devil's Tower in the Badlands and Custer State Park. Which in October are practically tourist-free.

Hmm, wonder if any of the local farm stands along the route will still be open. Ought to be fall fruit and veggies available, at least in places...

Am I still dirtbagging if I bring my own chef?

And it won't even interfere with your bizarre ritual of jumping off a bridge.

Maybe I should come rapp off the thing. Just to keep an eye on you.
